

Wildscapes: The Plant-Bug-Bird Diner

When: Saturday, March 26th 10 am – 2pm

Location: Riverside Nature Center, 150 Francisco Lemos Street, Kerrville

Registration required: call 830-257-4837

$35 Adults ($28 for RNC members)

Lunch is included

Come to the Riverside Nature Center's 'Wildscapes Workshop' to learn how your garden/property can provide food, water and shelter for a variety of wildlife, particularly songbirds. Even a small oasis - be it urban or rural - can provide important habitat.

The workshop will focus on

- native plants that attract insects (including butterflies) and/or provide food for songbirds
- assessing shelter requirements (bird house design, location and maintenance)
- providing small scale water sources, and
- conducting wildlife monitoring.

In addition to presentations by Susan Sander, founder of Riverside Nature Center, several local Master Naturalists will address aspects of birds in your back-yard:

- Barbara Lowenthal will focus on plants and bugs;
- Tom Collins will speak to water resources for birds; and
- Shelter for our feathered friends by Kevin Pillow of Wild Birds Unlimited.

Please pre-register, so that the proper number of lunches can be ordered.
